

Taki Baker Alyasri, BS (business and computer science)

Taki Baker Alyasri, boasts a robust education in finance, computer science, and data science from The University of Oregon. Specializing in data analysis and blockchain development, Taki has consistently pushed the boundaries of innovation throughout his career. With a Bachelor's degree in hand, Taki entered the realm of data analysis, showcasing a knack for unraveling patterns and implementing data-driven decision-making processes.

In the dynamic technology landscape, Taki emerged as a blockchain expert, contributing significantly to the conceptualization and implementation of secure and decentralized solutions. Beyond tech and finance, Taki actively participates in groundbreaking research, notably with the Cognitive Behavior Therapy (CBT) team, focusing on innovative approaches to ease pediatric dental fears and measuring the financial burden of dental disease associated with dental related fear..

As Taki evolves professionally, he maintains a pioneering role in technology and research, demonstrating a commitment to excellence and innovation. Poised to shape the future of data, finance, and beyond, Taki Baker Alyasri is a dedicated professional making meaningful contributions to various fields.